

HOW TO CARE FOR THE SKIN.

The Bath is Valuable, but There Are Many Necessary Accessories.

While all baths are good for the skin, except in certain peculiar cases, the hot bath has advantages over the cold in that it opens the pores and thus encourages the escape of matter that would otherwise clog the system and impair the general health. When only one bath a day is possible, it must be cold, it should be preceded by a sponging from head to foot in warm water.

Valuable accessories to the bath are the bags of bran, oatmeal or almond meal sold by druggists. A little borax or ammonia added to the water is excellent for people with greasy skins. A bathing glove of Turkish toweling may be used by those who prefer this to a sponge or wash cloth. Hard rubbing with a rough towel after the bath assists the action of the skin.

The woman who desires a good complexion must wash her face carefully. If soap is used, it must be of the best, and every particle of it must be rinsed off before drying the face. Use the cold or a soft cloth or sponge, and except in rare cases, do not wash the face more than once a day.

Water alone will not thoroughly cleanse the skin. If the face is gently but thoroughly rubbed with cold cream and then wiped off with a flannel, the grime that will be exuded from the pores will give mute evidence to the truth of the statement. This process should be gone through at least once a week.

In every city there are establishments for facial steaming and massaging, and better results are possible than can be obtained at home. Still, even home treatment is preferable to neglect, and if a woman possesses a face steamer she can manage very well. Lacking this she must improvise a steamer.

There are two ways of doing this at home. One way is to set a kettle of boiling water over a strong alcohol lamp and then insert a wide mouthed funnel in the spout. As the water boils the steam will pour through the funnel into the patient's face. She should cover her head with a sunbonnet shaped construction of stiff brown paper.

Another way of steaming is to hold the face above a basin of boiling water, throwing over the head a large towel that will hang down on all sides and prevent the escape of the steam. With either method the steaming must be kept up until the pores are opened and the perspiration flows freely.

Tire Setting Made Easy.

TIME IS MONEY.

To Manufacturers, Carriage Makers, Blacksmiths, everyone.

I have purchased at an expense of thousands of dollars, and have now in operation at my repair shops adjoining my stable on meadow street, one of

J. B. WEST'S LATEST IMPROVED TIRE SETTERS.

Everyone who has a carriage, a wagon, a cart, a truck or any kind of light or heavy wagon, or any kind of vehicle, is invited to come and see the greatest invention of the period. Exhibition free, charges for setting tires low as anywhere. Tires set cold while you wait. Can finish a full set of four heavy tires in about 20 minutes and on a rubber tire in five minutes. It is simply wonderful. Old methods are very funny in comparison. No fire, no noise, no injury to wheel or rim. The tire is put on in every way better than by any other process. One can hardly believe it without seeing it. I have the sole right for this section, and am ready to set tires for any and all at my repair shops. No business men, firms or individuals. No waiting, no imperfections in hot or cold weather. Old cars and new cars. All wheels handled are beautifully improved and strengthened by the process. Come and see the machine and read the many glowing testimonials.

THE LOST JEWELS.

Ting! Ting! Ting!

The electric bell over Detective Martin's desk told him he was wanted in the office of the chief of the secret service.

Opening a large glass door, he stepped before his superior. The latter motioned him to a chair. "Tell me," he said, "if you have been reading the newspapers and are posted upon the Niantic disaster."

"The Niantic," said Mr. Martin, running the case over in his mind and speaking in the bright, quick way so pleased the chief, "was an apartment house, an old fashioned, aristocratic structure, facing Washington square.

At midnight, a month ago, it burned to the ground with great loss of life. The fire is supposed to have originated in an explosion in an upper story, caused in some mysterious way by the gas with which most of the tenants heated their rooms."

"Good," said the chief. "Now I have only to tell you wherein this fire concerned. There visited the chief, Henry Williams, the famous diamond collector, whose apartments were in the Niantic, and he tells me that on the night of the fire he was in the building, in fact, he was in the room in which the fire broke out, and he found in the room a large number of diamonds, valued at $10,000, being stolen."

"And you wish me—"

"To talk with Henry Williams, get the truth out of him, and recover the stolen gems for him. And I would suggest that in tracing the robbery you may find that the Niantic was set on fire. This involves a case of manslaughter, as lives were lost. In short, it will be the biggest case of the year. And I have in my hand a letter from the Empire State building offering $10,000 reward for the discovery of the origin of the fire."

"When do I begin?"

"Right away. You will find Henry Williams in the reception room."

Detective Martin bowed in his usual quick manner and stepped across the hall where the chief of the secret service, nervously waiting to tell his story.

"Before you begin," said Mr. Martin, "tell me why you have waited a month before coming here."

"I have waited a month to find the jewels in the ruins of the building, especially as I have offered immense rewards to the workmen."
